It is damn well time to get off the back of Microsoft. If we, the consumers aren't happy with it, we can stop using it. We are not slaves to Bill Gates. How much have we wasted on useless persecution of a software producer, and how much had we spent going after bin Laden before Sept. 11, 2001? Let's get our priorities straight and consider the good of the country instead of following the path of Bill Clinton trying to repay his campaign contributors. We need real leadership instead of playing stupid political games.
